BCS Oxfordshire Branch Christmas Lecture 2007

Identity Fraud: From Criminals to Consumers

With 130,000 incidents in the last year, a tidal wave of identity theft is hitting the UK.

Tom Ilube, CEO of Garlik, an online consumer protection company, will present research and insight into online consumers, criminologists and fraudsters.

Garlik is one of the first consumer companies to exploit semantic web technologies on a large scale; Tom will explain why and how they are used in practice.

Date: NOW Tuesday 27 November 2007
Time: 7pm for 7.30pm start
Venue: Computing Laboratory, Wolfson Building,
Parks Road, Oxford
